Commencing the Theological Reflection process.

Bringing a refugee/displaced person issue into dialogue with a biblical text.

To make it easier for us to work together I have chosen the text, Luke 4:16-21.

Read the passage carefully. What feelings/emotions/questions does it evoke?

Identify its socio-historical context.

Whose vision is being presented in this text?

   Whose voice is heard? How often? To what effect?

   Whose voice is not heard? To what effect?

   Who see? Who never sees?

Where is power located in this story? Who has the power? How is it exercised?

What resources are mentioned/implied? Who owns them? Who controls them?

How do characters relate? How do ethnicity, race, class, age, gender function in the text?

What values are inherent in the passage? What is life giving? What is death-dealing?

What religious beliefs or practices support the situation? Is it God or not? From whose perspective? What religious beliefs or practices (within the wider story) challenge this situation?

Is there a counter-vision?

   How will we hear this vision?

   Who will speak it? Act it? Point toward it?

How might the text function for us to image a new future?

In using the above process relate it to one issue that you that you regularly experience.

BY Sister Loreto Conroy – 1996 or 1997?